Feedin' Time

YOU see warm in the cabin, and don't you wonder,
 How you know that you know are done, without looking?
 It's long about time they come in to be fed,
 And to be out away for the night to the shed.

Both horses and mules seem to have their own way
 Of eating exactly the same all the day,
 And I've noticed besides that they often get fat,
 Like some horses back, just to happen around.

Your feet is so warm that you don't like to go
 And get your boots wet, wadin' around in the snow.
 But the feed mules, you know, and it's feed brings 'em back,
 So you pull on your boots, and you start makin' tracks.

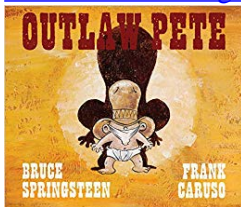

You pull down your hat and you turn up your collar,
 You start for the shed and the horses both follow.
 They are glad to see you, and I'm generally glad,
 A man don't get no better with some feed.
